

Intergenerational Activity

Creating our history of the last 100 years

- Gather a group of people of significantly different ages. Ask them to help you tell a story of our joint history.
- Across the top of the table on the next page, different decades have been grouped together into an era. Down the left-hand side of the table is something to be identified for each of the eras.
- Ask each person to provide an appropriate answer for each box, and write them down.

Reflect together:

- How many boxes can you fill in?
- What do you notice that is different (or the same) across the generations?
- How easy did you find it to remember some of the answers? Does it matter how old you are?
- What do you know now that you didn't know 10 minutes ago?

Adapted from an Activity prepared by Chris Barnett in the Older Person's Sunday resource. UnitingCare Australia

Intergenerational History of our last 100 years

	1920s, 30s, 40s	1950s, 60s	1970s, 80s, 90s	2000s
A favourite TV/radio show
A popular song
A sporting hero
A significant technological advance
A typical church social activity
A popular song / hymn in church
A fashion item
A famous band
The most successful football team				